

Correcting Adults

- Correcting an adult when they make a mistake is mostly not okay.
- Everyone makes mistakes even when we are careful. Sometimes these mistakes are really important, but most of the time they are not. A mistake is only important if it means something bad might happen.
- Most adults do not like to be corrected by a child. They can feel embarrassed when anyone corrects them and this feel worse when it is a child. It is considered really rude and can make adults very upset or cross.
- It is usually not okay to correct an adult. Only if it is really, really important should a child ever correct an adult. Then the child should say sorry to the adult before telling them about the mistake.
- It is only OK to correct an adult when it is really important. At all other times it is best not to correct them.
